Class of 1987 tries to bring back confetti

The class of 1986-87 consisted of 56 seniors. The class attempted to win Homecoming but came out in second. "Well at least we got to use 13 bags of confetti," said Michelle Kimmel.

In preparing for graduation, the class ordered caps and gowns, announcements, tassels and other memorabilia. Seniors spent a lot of time considering colleges, filling out scholarship applications and other financial aid forms.

In the summer of 1986 Greg Craven, Tom Miller, Susie Kuschnick, and Sara Imel attended Boys and Girls State. "It was an incredible experience. I learned so much I'll not soon forget it," remarked Greg Craven.

Working on a Global Studies assignment are Matt McClaughry and Aaron Reinwald.

The class of 88 started off the year with a car wash. At the car wash they made over $40 in donations and pledges. They also washed 52 cars.

The carwash was held in the Frey's Thriftway parking lot, on Portland Road and was supervised by Mr. Larry Dunlap.

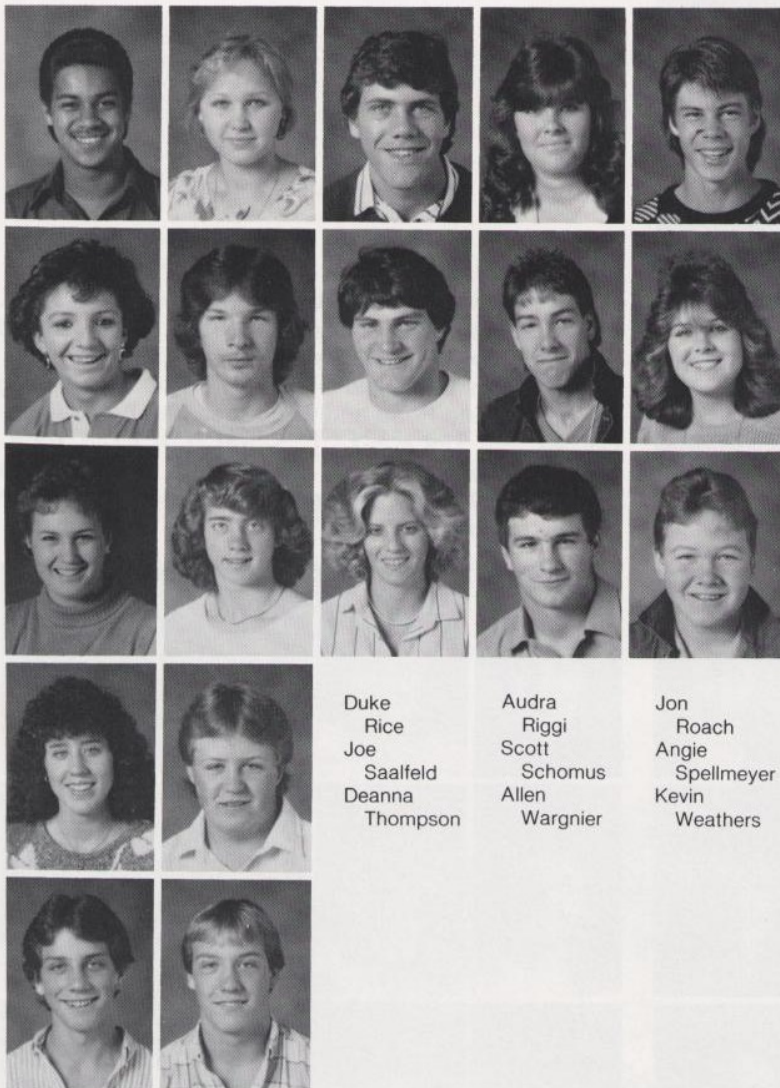

One of the participants, Darren Pool, said "besides the carwash being a success, a lot of support was given by the Junior class."

Sophomores make big money by selling gift checks

How am I going to earn enough money for my class ring? How will I pass sophomore English? Will I wreck the drivers ed. car? These are among the questions that most sophomores asked themselves.

One effective way to earn money the sophomores found, was to sell gift checks. In these gift checks there was a variety of coupons and many ways to save on certain things. The overall earnings totaled to over $700.00. "That's the most money this fund raiser has ever made," stated Mrs. Chris Welch, class adviser.

What if I'm not accepted? What will they think of me? Will I be able to handle my classes? Will I remember my schedule? These are some of the things that come to the minds of incoming freshman.

"It was fun, and a real neat experience to win over upper classmen," remarked Thomas Flores who was very surprised that the freshman won Homecoming week.

The class consisted of 76 freshman. It's very rare that freshman win Homecoming week but this class seemed to manage it.

Adding on to his drafting assignment is Joe Kyllingmark.
